Q: Iterate through Json in Angular I am working on a custom sort function for my Json data. The json data comes from a remote server. The data is basically collected by the server and then I get it via $http. The function is called sort_server and it allows to sort by the name, quantity, or product id. The sorting works fine, but I can't figure out how to save it. In the example below I have 3 objects that should be sorted, but I can only save the last object. The code below is used to get the object from the function and save it in a variable. `var element; sort_server.getAll().success(function (data) { element = data; console.log(element); }).error(function (data) { });` How can I save all the objects in the array element? A: Your code has a few issues. The most obvious is that you are pushing data into an array, but the type of element remains a single object, so `element.length` is 1. However, that's not actually the problem, it's that you have some asynchronous code blocking the execution of the rest of your script. Your call to `sort_server.getAll()` is likely being done asynchronously. In fact, its execution is likely to be happening in a separate thread and not blocking your controller. As a result, element is still a single object when you try to check its length. `var element = {};` `sort_server.getAll().success(function (data) { var len = data.length; // you can now access data like a list element = data; console` strain susceptible to salt-induced obesity. Leptin is involved in the regulation of body weight and food intake. The hypothalamus is the site of action of leptin. The present study investigates leptin and adrenocorticotropin (ACTH) expression in the hypothalamus of two rat strains: the salt-sensitive Dahl/Rapp salt-

salt-resistant
(DS/Rapp-RR) rats.
Male DS/Rapp-SR, DS/Rapp-RR and
control Dahl/Rapp
(D/Rapp) rats, fed standard laboratory
diet (CSD) or high-salt diet (HSD), were used for the studies. The HSD for the Dahl strains was given as the basal diet, or as 0.4% NaCl or 0.6% NaCl. The leptin mRNA expression level and the number of leptin receptors were significantly lower in DS/Rapp-SR than in DS/Rapp-RR rats fed CSD, and in DS/Rapp-SR rats fed HSDs containing 1% or 4%

NaCl than in DS/Rapp-SR rats fed CSD. In DS/Rapp-RR rats fed HSDs containing 1% NaCl, 1% NaCl diet or CSD, the expression level and the number of ACTH receptors were similar. The expression level of the cortisol receptors (mineralocorticoid receptors (MR)) in the hypothalamus of DS/Rapp-SR rats was significantly lower than in DS/Rapp-RR rats regardless of diets. These data suggest that the strain difference in hypothalamic leptin and ACTH receptor expression may play a role in the difference in body weight gain in DS/Rapp-SR rats
