paul hales 2019/01/28 In many open source projects, an administrator is often the person responsible for ensuring that the network operates in a safe and secure fashion. NITE is no different - the trust network is securely used for processing bitcoin payments and Nite Team 4 represents an administrator of the network. The Nite Team The NITE team is composed of John Godfrey, Linux founder and All Secure product developer; Jeremiah Disquis, executive director and CEO of All Secure; Phil Carlson, technical lead, BUIDL; Robert Flaherty, founding member, bitcoin-developers; Daniel Belo, a.k.a. @StoxitDT and bitcoin developer; Michael Perkalo, founding member of Bitcoin Indonesia and adviser; Michael Shakhtarod, head of Blockchain technologies at Blockfeed; Cristiano Canuto de Lima, leads the industry and innovation of Nite (regulator and cryptocurrency expert); and me, Paul Hale's random reviewer. The new NITE team Nite team members tend to be honest, dedicated, persistent, forward-thinking, highly attuned to their responsibilities, lucky, intelligent, savvy and highly capable. Additionally, the Nite team members are regular, public people, who don't engage in inside jokes or insulting comments. Other merits include creativity, talent, commitment and having recently developed the Nite Team 4. Finally, the Nite Team is generally of a workaholic mentality, having dedicated many hours to building the project. Taking a look at the Nite team members, one thing I deduced is that at least three of the Nite team members are from the eastern hemisphere. I'm sure there are good reasons for the geographical location, but I'm suspicious of the eastern hemisphere conspiracy theory. However, there are a few Nite team members that aren't from the east as well. The relationship between Nite Team 4 and the Nite Team I got curious about how the Nite Team 4 has been developed so that its a new innovation. I realized that Nite Team 4 seems like a product of the "one person's vision". It's been made up of a few developers, people constantly trying to innovate and improve. I've been quite curious about how Nite Team 4 has been developed and how well they've been able to benefit the Nite

8-in-1 IQ Scale is a rhythm game where your goal is to string together power chords and combine them with the moving eight-sided blocks to make the best score that the grid allows. Think Tetris meets Crossy Road. It's addictive and high-energy music as you guide the blocks through the falling columns and the rising bars. The goal in 8-in-1 IQ Scale is to score as many points as you can over the threshold to stop the growing blocks. There are dozens of songs, carefully chosen to match the sound of the music in your playlist. Key Features: – Challenge friends on Facebook – Share high scores on the leaderboards – Play while connected to WiFi or local network – Four different play modes – Over 100 original songs – 23 hand-crafted levels – Use a bluetooth speaker for a truly amazing experience – Easy and intuitive controls – Block movement based on touch screen and accelerometer – Red / Green blocks have different colors and sounds The Soundtracks: “Energy Bed” is the music track used when the game begins. It's a catchy beat that flows effortlessly and quickly through every song in the game. The opening and ending themes are a bit more subdued, but it's basically the same song with a different melody. “Diagonal” is a set of short tracks used when the blocks have been moving along their journey for a while. There's a burst of energy in each song as the blocks speed up for the last final challenge before the big finish. “Flip” is the music track you hear when all of the blocks are moving together toward the finish line. The complete opposite of “Diagonal”, there's a sense of urgency as you must cross the finish line to complete the game and the songs get faster and faster! “Jumping” is the music track that's used when the blocks have begun to fall. As the blocks move down, the timbre changes to reflect the descent and the rhythm speeds up to match the falling blocks. “Levels” is the music track that's used when the blocks are reaching the bottom of the grid. Time slows down and the music shifts into a slower tempo, reflecting the perfect place to stop the blocks. About the Developer: We are a software development company from Prague, Czech Republic.
